Chicago's best new homes 2007

The experts choose the top developments of 2007

Each year, New Homes Magazine puts on its homebuyers' hat and scours the city to find the best new developments across all housing types – from glittery, high-profile high-rises to single-family homes in neighborhoods on the up.

To make the housing hunt a little easier, we consider everything that an average homebuyer would consider when making choices – location and pricing, finishes and floor plans, architecture and amenities. This year, we are happy to report that the best of the best is scattered throughout the city, from the Southwest Side to the Far North and everywhere in between.

Motor Row Lofts - Chicago's Best New Loft

True loft developments are in finite supply, but just when we think all the most fascinating buildings have already been converted, something like Motor Row Lofts comes along. Development in the South Loop has been pushing farther south for years, and now Chicago's historic Motor Row on South Michigan Avenue is experiencing its own mini-boom. At Motor Row Lofts, buyers in a wide range of price points can buy into automotive history and get loft features coupled with the luxury finishes of new construction.

Few residents of new-construction condos can delight in telling guests the "back story" of their homes, but loft buildings always tell a tale, one residents buy into the moment they close on their homes. Motor Row Lofts offers Chicago buyers both the best story and the best features we've seen in a loft conversion this year.
